God designed you with passions, purpose and talents that you can use to glorify him. As you serve him, your God-given gifts might even change over time! Picture yourself serving at an organization where you can grow alongside a family of believers — all while bringing people hope through God's Word.

In Psalm 139:14a, the psalmist says, "Thank you for making me so wonderfully complex!" (NLT). We believe this truth, that God made each of us with varied skills, talents and interests. At Wycliffe, we're passionate about bringing God's Word to people who don't yet have it in a language and form that speaks to their heart.

What if your skills and God's mission could intersect?

MEET LAURA!

Role: Scripture Engagement Specialist

Location: Juba, South Sudan

There's more to translation work than what meets the eye and Laura knows that. Laura was a teacher in Asia before she felt God's tug on her heart to join Wycliffe. So she followed God's calling to South Sudan and discovered her role in Bible translation work as a Scripture engagement specialist. Although life in Africa can be challenging, Laura engages in relationships with South Sudanese people around her, saying: "I have a heart for this country and the people here. ... I feel like God wants me here."

MEET CALEB!

*Role: Systems Administrator
Location: Orlando, FL*

Caleb studied network and server administration in college and enjoys getting the chance to learn about new technologies. At Wycliffe, he has the opportunity to expand his horizons, challenge himself, improve his abilities, and connect with Christian coworkers just as passionate about his field as he is! "Missions is about way more than just serving on the field," Caleb said. "Somebody's got to take care of all the logistical and back-office issues so missionaries can focus on their work. [It's] clear that just about every skill out there has a place in missions."
